BOWLING GREEN, KENTUCKY

FRIDAY, JUNE 29, 1951

Mack Sisk, right, former editor of the College Heights Herald, is shown accepting a plaque from Harry Naddler, assistant director of the Kentucky division of forestry, in recognition of the first place award in the promotion of forestry won by the Dawson Springs Progress at the mid-summer meeting of the Kentucky Press Association. Sisk, co-publisher of the Progress and now administrative assistant to Gov. Lawrence Wetherby, accepted the award on behalf of the newspaper and the editor, Niles O. Dillingham. The award was made jointly to the newspaper and the editor for forestry promotion done during the past year in connection with the Pennyrile State Park near Dawson Springs.

Former Westerners Take Honors In K.P.A. Contest

Three Kentucky weekly newspapers headed by Western graduates took honors in the annual Kentucky Press Association contests. Winners in the contests were announced at the KPA's 82nd mid-summer meeting held at Cumberland Falls State Park, June 14, 15 and 16.

The Central City Messenger and Times-Argus, edited by Larry and Amos Stone, carried off six awards. The Times-Argus tied for third place with the Campbellsville News-Journal for the best all-around community newspapers. Third place awards in best news story, best editorial, best news picture and best quarter page ad were won along with a second place award for best in community service.

The Franklin Favorite edited by L. L. Valentine with Howard Ogles as business manager took second place in the best full page advertisement contest. Second and third places were won in the half-page ad contest. A third place award was won by Editor Valentine's column "Community Comment" in the best hometown column contest.

The Dawson Springs Progress of which Mack Sisk is co-publisher took first place in the promotion of interest and cooperation in forestry. Sisk is now on leave from the Progress and is serving as administrative assistant to Gov. Lawrence Wetherby.

BULLETIN

Western will observe its only holiday during the summer term next Wednesday, July 4, in observance of Independence Day.

All classes will be dismissed and all offices will be closed on that day.

Deferment Test To Be Given Tomorrow

The last of three Selective Service College Qualification Tests will be given tomorrow in Cherry Hall. From room 102, the assembly room, the students will be distributed to other rooms for the purpose of taking the test.

Dr. L. Y. Lancaster, who is in charge of the test, requests that the testees be in the assembly room by 8:00 a. m. so that they may be placed before the instructions begin at 8:30. The test will begin promptly at 9:00 a. m. Anyone arriving after the instructions start at 8:30 will not be permitted to take the test.

Tomorrow's test will close at approximately 12:30 p. m.

Dr. Lancaster says he expects that the number of students taking the test tomorrow will be much larger than those who took the previous tests on May 28 and June 16.

Admission to the testing rooms will be limited to those students who hold tickets of admission, which show proper date and place for the test.

In addition the student must bring with him to the testing room an official document showing his Selective Service number and the exact designation, number, and address of his board.

$5,000 Left To Western By Carolyn Snell

Mrs. Carolyn Snell, who died June 4 in New Orleans, bequeathed Western State College $5,000 as an endowment gift in the name of her late husband, C. Perry Snell. Her will which has just been probated stipulated that the money may be used in any way the college may choose.

Dr. Paul L. Garrett, Western president, said it would be determined later how the endowment fund is to be used. He added that the interest on the endowment probably will be used as a freshmen scholarship or to purchase books for the library with C. Perry Snell name plates in each one.

Dated Dec. 17, 1948, the will provided that the bulk of Mrs. Snell's estate should go to a niece, Mrs. Dorothy Reinhold Mainwaring of Springfield, Delaware county, Pa. It also named Mrs. Mainwaring executrix.

Mr. Snell, a graduate of Ogden College, went to Florida during the boom and was responsible for the Snell Isle development, which to this day is St. Petersburg's most exclusive residential section. The lot sale in 1925 was the largest in that Florida city's history, topping $7,000,000.

Following Mr. Snell's death in 1942, Mrs. Snell assumed management of his extensive properties.

Mr. Snell provided most of the money for construction of Snell hall on the Western campus and also donated his art collection to the local college. The Italian garden on the Chestnut street side of Snell hall was a part of this collection.

Summer Enrollment Totals 1,182

Total enrollment for the eight-week summer term at Western of students in full-time daily attendance is 1,182, according to an announcement by college officials.

In addition, approximately 350 students are attending the Training School and 101 are enrolled at the Trade School.

Three From Training School Go To Europe

Three members of the training school faculty are planning trips to Europe this summer.

Mrs. Ethel Banard, teacher of the third grade, and Mrs. W. L. Matthews will leave on August 3 from New York. They will visit England, Scotland, Holland, Belgium, Switzerland, Italy, Monaco, and France.

On August 4 Mr. and Mrs. Herman Lowe, Louise Drake, and Mrs. C. P. McNally, fifth grade teacher, will sail aboard the Queen Mary. Mrs. Lowe's fourth grade class has been studying this trip as part of their classwork.

Contracts For Student Union Building To Be Awarded In Near Future

Contracts for construction of the proposed $730,000 student union building on the Western campus are to be awarded in the immediate future.

This was revealed June 24 following a meeting of the institution's board of regents, at which the college was authorized to proceed immediately with plans to erect the brick and steel structure.

The board named the Executive Committee to work out remaining details between the college and the State Building Commission in order that contracts may be let at the earliest possible date.

Members of the Executive Committee are Dr. Paul L. Garrett, J. P. Masters, Bowling Green, and John Richardson, Glasgow, members of the board.

The building will be located on the inner circle of the Western campus midway between the Cedar house and Potter hall dormitory for male students. Too, it will be constructed in line with present buildings of the inner circle, which are Potter hall, Van Meter auditorium, Library building, Cherry hall and the Cedar house.

The student union structure will complete the inner circle.

Approximately 14 months will be required to complete the building after work is started. It is expected to be ready for dedication about Christmas of 1952.

The building will contain complete and modern cafeteria facilities on the ground floor. The first, or main, floor will be devoted entirely to a large lounge and recreational facilities.

John Sherman Cooper is scheduled to deliver the summer commencement address in the Western Stadium on Friday, July 27, at 7 p. m. A former U. S. senator from Kentucky, Mr. Cooper is now a member of the law firm of Gardner, Morrison and Rogers in Washington, D. C. He has served as Ambassador-at-Large and special advisor to Secretary of State Dean Acheson as well as representing the United States in the United Nations.

Mr. Cooper, a native of Somerset, was elected to the U. S. Senate in 1946. Since that time he has represented the United States in the United Nations prior to his assignments with the State department.

The Kentucky statesman received the A. B. degree from Yale University in 1923 and attended Harvard during 1923-25. He assisted in the reorganization of the German judicial system in Bavaria following World War II. He entered the service as a private and advanced to the rank of captain.

cement exercises will be held in Van Meter Auditorium.

Before being appointed to his present church in Louisville, the Rev. Munday served as the district superintendent of the Hopkinsville district of the Methodist church. He also served as dean of the Kentucky Methodist Pastors School for five years.

Including the summer graduates, some 345 students will have been graduated from Western this year. At the June commencement exercises 212 candidates received degrees. At the summer graduation Dr. Paul L. Garrett, president of Western, will confer bachelor's degrees on approximately 101 graduates. To date 33 applications have been received for the M. A. degree and more are expected.

Time and dates for other commencement week activities will be announced later.

The German students will board ship on July 12 to return to their native Germany and carry back to other students a glimpse of the American customs, government and everyday life.

Rural Life Conference To Be July 13, 14,

The annual Rural Life Conference sponsored each summer by Western is scheduled to be held this year on July 13 and 14. This event has been a feature of the summer activities at the college since the early 30's.

An old fashioned fish fry, as has been the custom every year, will again be held on the picnic grounds at Mammoth Cave on the afternoon of July 13. It will get underway at 6:30.

The following morning a program of general interest to school administrators will be held in Van Meter Auditorium beginning at 10 o'clock.

Faculty members and students at Western are urged to attend the Conference, President Paul L. Garrett stated. Tickets for the fish fry will be on sale in the Business office in Van Meter Auditorium. The price will be 50 cents. President Garrett announced that all students eating in the college cafeteria who wish to attend the fish fry will be given credit for the meal missed in the cafeteria.

It was also announced that if there is sufficient demand, buses would be provided for transportation to Mammoth Cave. The buses will leave from in front of Cherry Hall at 4:15 p. m. on the afternoon of July 22 and return to Bowling Green that evening. All persons in-

ROTC At Western

The Military Department of Western would like to point out the advantages of being a member of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps (ROTC) to all eligible citizens of the United States who are not less than 14 years of age and who have not passed their 26th birthday.

Membership is purely voluntary, and the Basic Course (Freshman and Sophomore) is not an obligation for military service. College credits are given to ROTC members at the rate of two semester hours credit for each semester of the first two years and four hours credit for each semester of the Junior and Senior years. Continuous membership in the ROTC will result in the award of a Reserve Commission as Second Lieutenant in either the Army or the Air Force upon graduation, with the option of applying for a Regular Commission.

The Army and Air Force pays each Advanced Student (Juniors and Seniors) an allowance of $90 per day for 595 days plus $75.00 per month while attending Summer Camp training, or a total of about $720.00. In addition, officers uniforms and text books are furnished all ROTC students at government expense.

The Army ROTC stresses several interesting subjects, among which are the teaching of how to lead men (Leadership) and how to shoot a rifle (Marksmanship).

Although the Army ROTC Unit at Western is an Infantry Unit, students majoring in law, for example, may be commissioned in the Judge Advocate General's Corps or, if majoring in Engineering, the Corps of Engineers. The Infantry offers Airborne Training upon graduation, if students are interested.

In the Air Force ROTC, students may choose one of two courses: Administration and Logistics or Flight Operations. The Administration and Logistics course prepares students to become an Air Force administrative officer, while the Flight Operations option deals with subjects closely related to the use of air power and prepares the student to enter one of the Air Force flying schools, after graduation from college, if desired.

As an Air Force ROTC cadet, the student will be given the opportunity to study such subjects as Military Policy of the United States Psychology and Applied Air Power; Military Administration; Teaching Methods and Career Development.

It is the present policy of both the Army and Air Force to provide deferments from Selective Service for selected students who are maintaining proper standards both in college and ROTC work.

Eligible young men and their parents are welcomed and urged to call on or write the Professor of Military Science and Tactics (PMS&T) or the Professor of Air Science and Tactics (PAS&T) at Western Kentucky State College any time to discuss the ROTC program.

The President of Western, Dr. Paul L. Garrett, is keenly interested in ROTC affairs and urges all young men attending college to consider this program.

HILLTOPICS

By VERNON STONE

At a radio station there are times when the sound of a baseball game or while records are playing on a disk jockey show.

Of course, one can spend the time practicing his next commercial, making a careful selection of the on-deck record. But at WKAY the time is more often spent in reading or in talking, off-the-air talk that listeners don't hear.

Bob Lavooy and I are working at WKAY, Glasgow, this summer; and it's pretty easy for our conversations to get around to Western. The other day while doing some recorded shows, we got on the subject of how professional basketball differs from the college game.

"I GUESS THE BIGGEST difference is that pro ball is a much tougher game. Here we're definitely playing for money."

A glance at his schedule for last year will define that work "tough." Bob's team, the Indianapolis Olympians, played 111 games over a six-month season. He said they played so many games that almost no days were left for regular practice sessions.

Bob joined the Olympians when his college eligibility ran out at the end of his third year at Western. This was due to his having played Freshman ball at the University of Illinois. Other Olympians are the club owners, the Fabulous Five from Kentucky—Ralph Beard, Wah-Wah Jones, Cliff Barker, Alex Groza, and Joe Holland.

The means of choosing players for pro teams is different from the college method too. You're drafted, you try out, and if you make it you start. But anytime you fail to make the grade, there's no hesitation in weeding you out. Last year for example, of the some 100 college players drafted at the start of the season only 15 were left at the finish. Bob was one of the 15.

"Always, you're playing for money," Bob reiterated. "The fans pay to see basketball, that's what you have to give them. It's a faster moving and higher scoring game, because that's what the spectators demand."

"THEY GET MORE for their money at a pro game too. By that, I mean they see more basketball. We have 12-minute quarters and with overtimes a game can get pretty long. The Olympians, by the way, played last year the longest overtime game ever played in pro basketball. After six overtimes and a total of 78 minutes playing time, we finally did beat the Rochester Royals."

In that game Bob tied the score on two of the overtimes.

The former Western star isn't sure what he'll do this season. He says he likes radio so well that he may stay in it. He got his first experience on a part-time job with WLBJ while he was on the Hill.

Bob's wife, the former Jane Peden; and their 10-month-old daughter are living at Cave City. Bob drives over daily to do his announcing shift at WKAY.

It seems that basketball players are getting taller all the time, and you haven't seen anything till you've seen the giants of the pro leagues. At 6' 7" Bob Lavooy says he's one of the shortest centers in his league. Imagine that.

YOU'VE GOT TO BE TALL

It's getting so, nowadays, everybody's got to be tall—even a disk jockey.

We've got a 45 r. p. m. turntable that located a certain distance from the regular turntables. By certain distance, I mean just within Bob Lavooy's reach when he stretches, but about a foot out of my reach when I'm at the regular turntables.

When I play a mixture of 78's and 45's, I have to get up to make the change, whereas Bob can remain seated and leisurely reach over and change records. As a result I generally avoid the 45's.

This week, however, I'm doing an hour-long request show. And about every third request is to be found on 45's only.

So if anybody has a formula for getting about 10 inches taller within two or three days, I could very well use it.

NOTES ON THIS AND THAT

In case you're interested, your outgoing (or outgoing) editor plans to spend the rest of the summer at my present job of announcing and writing news and continuity for WKAY. I plan graduate work for somewhere this fall if my draft board goes along with the idea.

Let's sign off with a letter I ran across the other day:

"Dear John,"

"I Love You Because" "I Fall In Love Too Easily" "Day By Day" "Slipping Around" "Doing What Comes Naturally" "That's Where I Came In" "Too Many Times" "If This Isn't Love" "You Were Only Fooling" "I'll Never Know Why" "I Still Feel The Same About You" "Meet Me Tonight In Dreamland" "On Top Of Old Smoky."

"Faithfully Yours,"
"Jezebel"

If we know something good let's tell it. Some day we may get the habit of tending only the things that are helpful rather than those that are hurtful.

Birds I View

By Betty Hartley

Paul Downs

Most-people journey to the College Heights post office primarily to pick up their mail, but if an empty box leers at them, they may try to forget their disappointment by exchanging a few bantering words with Paul.

A junior majoring in science, Paul thinks his job in the post office is the most interesting and informative one he has ever had. "Can't think of a better place to get all the current gossip," says he.

Having few vices himself, Paul doesn't think much of girls who smoke, but says he is pretty fond of girls in general.

Eating is the favorite hobby, pastime, and interest of this importation from Buchel, Kentucky, but he also enjoys swimming. He is known for his ever-ready friendly smile and sympathetic ear. He likes people; therefore people like him.

Paul is interested in F. B. I. work and plans to try to enter it when he is graduated from Western. That is, provided the Air Force doesn't get him first.

Bill Conley

Six foot-two inch, 175-pound Bill Conley migrated to Western last September from Van Lear, Kentuck

by way of Pikeville Junior College and Georgetown College.

Bill is a senior majoring in social science area, and says that when he graduates, which he hopes he can do within the next five years, he plans to do absolutely nothing.

Strictly a night-owl, he dislikes getting up in the morning, daylight, and classes. He likes women (especially Ann the Moose) and sleep.

Mr. Conley can seldom find the time or energy to eat, but when he does, his idea of a perfect meal is fried chicken, green peas, mashed potatoes, gravy, biscuits, radishes and coffee, topped off with a cigarette.

Basketball was Bill's main sport in high school, but he has recently decided that any such sport is pointless. He thinks it's ridiculous for ten men to knock themselves out trying to throw a big ball through a little hoop. As for himself, he would much rather sit in some cool, dark spot and ponder over the mysteries of life.

September will find the Air Force ROTC unit at Western sporting a new corps flag.

The flag, which will have school colors, will show an American eagle atop a shield containing the name of this institution.

Moral And Spiritual Workshop Held At Western Last Week

The first workshop in the moral and spiritual values in education to be held on the Western campus was in session from June 11 to June 23. Approximately thirty teachers and principals from a dozen or more school systems in widely scattered sections of Kentucky, and from Georgia teachers college, participated.

The workshop was directed by Dr. Earl A. Moore, of Western's English department, assisted by three teachers from the Bowling Green system. They were Miss Dawn Gilbert, of the senior high school; Mrs. Ethel Webb Hancock, of the Center street school; and Mrs. Rebena Crockett, of the College street school.

Dr. William H. Kilpatrick, professor emeritus of the philosophy of education in Columbia University, delivered three lectures on the opening day of the workshop.

Mr. J. Mansir Tydings, of Lincoln Ridge, Kentucky, chairman of the state department of education committee on moral and spiritual education, visited the workshop several times.

Sessions of the entire group were held at the nine o'clock class period; smaller groups met for more protracted discussions in the afternoons. The workshop was listed by the department of education as Education 383.

On Tuesday evening, June 19, the group enjoyed a picnic in Municipal park.

On Saturday, June 23, from nine to eleven, an open session was held in Cherry Hall 210. Invitations had been extended to the membership of the Parent-Teacher associations in the Third district. A number of units of the P. T. A. were represented in this meeting. The program consisted of talks by Mr. Tydings, Dr. Moore, the assistant directors; the following students: Mrs. Virginia Ruth Chapman, attendance officer of Henderson, Kentucky; Mrs. C. A. Ray, principal of the T. C. Cherry school in Bowling Green; Mr. James Park, of the Central City high school; Mrs. Mary Edna Todge, of the Louisville system; and Miss Edwina Jones of the Bowling Green junior high school; and by a guest speaker, Mrs. C. H. Flowers, of Glasgow, Third district president of the P. T. A.

A report of the workshop, including some of the papers written by the enrollees, will appear in a bulletin soon to be issued by the state department of education. Mrs. John Burt, of Fort Thomas, a Western alumna, will edit the bulletin. Mrs. Burt was a visitor at the closing session.

The Bowling Green school system is one of six pilot schools in the state in connection with the moral and spiritual education movement. Dr. Moore is coordinator for the local schools.

W. J. Craig

Professor W. J. "Uncle Billy" Craig, Secretary of the alumni association and director of personnel at Western, Thursday received a certificate from the University of Kentucky conferring upon him membership in the Half Century Club. "Uncle Billy" who has been a member of the Western staff for the past 43 years graduated from the University of Kentucky in 1901.

Librarians Will Attend Conference

Miss Margie Helm and Miss Sara Tyler, librarians at Western, plan to attend the American Library Association Conference to be held in Chicago from July 8 to July 12. Clarence R. Graham, librarian of the Louisville Free Public Library, is this year's president of the association.

Miss Tyler will represent the Kentucky Library Association as its president.

Miss Temple Goes To Europe

Miss Ruth Hines Temple, head of the art department at Western, sails for Europe today aboard the liner, Queen Mary. She has joined the tour of the Bureau of University Travel, which will arrive in Cherbourg, France on July 4.

The party will spend a week in Paris enjoying the cathedrals, museums, and exhibits. From Paris the tour will go to the Southern part of France. Miss Temple plans to motor on the Riviera.

While in Italy Miss Temple will see such outstanding towns as Venice, Milan, Rome and Florence. Foremost in her European tour she wants to see as many works of art as possible.

Things Are Buzzing For The Beekeeping Class

By Evelyn Bailey

Courses of unusual interest and courses that are of easily applied practical value are just what the average college student is continually looking for but seldom finds.

Although probably unknown to the majority of people on the campus, there exists at Western such a course combining informative theoretical material and practical usage of it.

This course of three credit hours is apiculture, or beekeeping, which is open to women as well as men, and is taught each spring by Dr. L. Y. Lancaster of the biology department.

NOTHING NEW at all, this course has been taught here for approximately a quarter century. It was first begun in the early twenties by some young Wisconsin men who were on the faculty at that time.

Mr. Charles Taylor, head of the agriculture department, took it over following their leaving until Dr. Lancaster filled the position about 15 years ago.

Dr. Daniel Hays, head of the agriculture department at Arkansas State College, was among former students of Western who have taken agriculture. A laboratory instructor when he was here, Dr. Hays is now teaching a similar course on bees at Arkansas State.

One who has completed a semester in beekeeping has mastered enough knowledge to enable him to do practical beekeeping. Several of the 15 men now enrolled in the class this year have already developed a small apiary of their own and others will no doubt do so in the future.

Actual work in the class consists of learning technical information about bees and laboratory application of this through practical manipulation.

THE PRACTICAL WORK consists of learning the proper manual manipulations, preparation of equipment, installing package bees, the transfer of bees from old type hives and the proper handling for honey production.

Bees are transferred or installed into modern equipment, often re-queened, and generally cared for in the best manner.

Much work is done for the farmers of this neighborhood, possibly three-fourths of the laboratory work being spent in the bee yards other than the campus. The students transfer the farmers' bees from old hives to new ones and modernize their apiaries in every respect.

Among the information secured by members of the class are facts such as the assurance that modern bees have well developed stings, according to Dr. Lancaster.

Apprehensiveness reaches a high peak as a bee or insect finds its way into a student's clothing and his work usually stops until it has been removed.

Why not develop stingless bees is a question often asked. The answer is that there are such, but they are of no value as honey producers. Also this protective structure is necessary in the defense of the hive against their numerous enemies.

Honey bees are not native to America, Dr. Lancaster pointed out, but were first brought over from Europe by the early immigrants.

THE EARLY SETTLERS in Kentucky introduced the vicious German bee and later the Italian race was brought in, and as a result much hybridization occurred, which also often produced an ill-tempered bee. Most of our unimproved stock is composed of the above types.

The Italian race is most popular over the United States, probably nine-tenths of the colonies of bees of commercial beekeepers are of the Italian breed. Other popular races are the Carniolians and Caucasians, two less common breeds of bees.

Contrary to popular belief, bees gather nectar from flowers not honey. The honey is manufactured from this nectar, which has a sugar content that varies from approximately 5 to 65 per cent with an average content of about 40 per cent.

The bee hive is a factory, the nectar is the raw product, the bees are the workers, and honey is the by-product.

Bees have been observed with

Mr. George Page, head of the Physics department, and Floyd Carter, a member of the department, attended a three-day Physics Colloquium at the State university of Iowa, at Iowa City, Iowa, from June 13 through June 16.

While at Iowa City, Mr. Page visited with Dr. Edward B. Nelson, a farmer member of the Western physics department, and Mrs. Nelson.

Water Safety Comes First At College Pool

You need have little fear while swimming in the college swimming pool. Five life guards, all Red Cross Water Safety instructors, are constantly on the lookout for anyone who should happen to get too much water or make any infraction to the rules of the pool.

Roger McGinnis, who is in charge of the pool, is a graduate of Boy Scout National Aquatic school at Toledo, Ohio, and Red Cross National Aquatic School, Camp Luther Lynn, Pittsburgh, Penn. Life guards under his direction are Leo Magers, Sam Short, John Drago, and Don Walker.

Private swimming lessons are taught at the pool from 1 p. m. until 3 p. m. At three o'clock the pool opens for public swimming. The pool is also open from 8:30 until 9:00 at night.

One of the main activities of the pool during this summer was the Senior, Red Cross Life Saving course from which twenty people were graduated.

Indiana All-Stars Take Six Straight From Kentucky

Indiana's high school All-Star basketball team won its sixth straight victory over Coach Ed Diddle's Kentucky All-Stars at Indianapolis, 68-57, on the night of June 16 in their annual summer series.

However, Kentucky's Charley Hadden, Lexington Lafayette guard, was recognized as the top player on the court and was named the "Star of Stars". Hadden swept high - scoring honors by drilling home 19 points.

A three-goal spurt by Indiana's Jack Tilley late in the third quarter put the Hoosiers on top to stay and they gradually stretched their margin in the final period.

The tall Indiana team whose starting lineup averaged six feet four, yielded the lead only twice, both times in the second quarter.

The USAF is increasing the number of universities and colleges offering its ROTC curriculum from 125 to 187.

Extra Point Wins For West All-Stars

An extra try for an extra point gave the West high school All-Star football team its first victory over the East All-Stars in the annual game as Jimmy Haynes' westerners won 7-6 in the Western Stadium on the night of June 22.

The game was a battle of evenly balanced lines all the way but the West broke into the scoring column in the third quarter with a 35-yard drive. Jimmy Sedbrook of Louisville Male muffed 31 of the 35 yards in three plays. The All - Southern halfback ripped off 20 yards, added eight more and then circled left end on a pitch-out from Flagel's George Fields for the marker.

Then came the West's big break. The try for extra point was wide, as the East was off - sides thereby giving the West another chance. Big Jim Sanford of Russellville was sent into the line and he bulled his way over for a 7-0 lead.

With three minutes left, the fighting East team of Clarence Caple got rolling. A pass from Newport Catholic's Jerry Nassano, who quarterbacked the East's split T formation, to Bellevue's Jack Binkley carried to the West five. On the next play Nassano faded back to pass, spotted an opening and raced around right end to tally. Don Schneider of Newport Catholic missed the extra point and that was the game.

Both sides had points taken away in the opening frame. In the second quarter Jim White of Newport was nailed in the end zone by Joe Koch of St. Xavier and Sanford for a safety but the West was offside. Two plays later Nassano flipped to White who went all the way on a beautiful run but again an offside penalty nullified the points.

Koch was voted the "Star of Stars" for his outstanding play both on offense and defense. He played almost the entire game. Sedbrook and Nassano were runners-up to the St. Xavier guard for the coveted award.

Haynes, former All-K. I. A. C. guard for Western and now head football coach at Russellville, led his great undefeated team to the first Western Kentucky Conference championship in Russellville's history last season. He had as his assistants to aid in directing the victorious West, Benny Parker, coach at Louisville Shawnee high school, and Ralph Mills, former coach at Hopkinsville and now coach at Louisville Atherton high school.

Caple, another former Hilltopper great who was a three-time All-K. I. A. C. center when he played for Western, coached the East to a 32-6 win last year. He moved to Dayton as head football coach from Springfield this spring. He was assisted with the East squad this year by John Stoll of Ludlow and Jim Huter of Flagel, both former Western athletes.

The 90-piece Clear Creek Music Camp band which came to Bowling Green from the camp site at London, Ky. for the game put on outstanding pre - game and halftime shows. The band which was made up of young musicians from 42 Kentucky cities and six other states was under the direction of Reid Hoskins, Bowling Green.

The game is sponsored each year by the Bowling Green Junior Chamber of Commerce. This year's tilt was easily the best yet staged. Some 2500 fans attended.

During the pre-game ceremonies Doty Nuckols, a student at Western from Glasgow, was crowned the queen of the All-Star game by J. Lewis Harmon, Bowling Green, president elect of the Kentucky Junior Chamber of Commerce. She will be entered in the Kentucky division of the Miss America contest to be held at Owensboro in July.

The queen was elected from a field of six candidates by a vote of the members of the two All-Stars squads. The six candidates were selected during a beauty pageant and water show held at the Western pool two nights prior to the game.

Also chosen from the six finalists were an East and a West sweetheart, Bonita Hall, Bowling Green, was the East sweetheart and Jo Ann Browning, Bowling Green, was named the West's sweetheart.

Harry Hadden, 23, has been appointed head basketball coach at the new Southern high school at Okolona in Jefferson county. He moved over from Fairdale.

Mike Dubick, Class of 1941, will be the new football coach at Southern.

Kentucky Plays Ohio All-Stars Three Games

Coach Ed Diddle's Kentucky high school All-Star basketball team, playing three games this year against the Ohio high school All-Stars dropped two games in Kentucky but won the third in Ohio.

The opening game was played in the Western gym on the night of June 21. The Buckeyes sparked by 6-7 Dick Vogelle's five-point spurge in the final minutes edged the Kentuckians 63-60. Woody Preston, Pikeville forward, was named the "Star of Stars" in this game. The award was presented by Gov. Lawrence Wetherby. Preston and Vogelle tied for high scoring honors with 15 each.

The next night the two squads tangled at Maysville. Again in the final seconds the Buckeyes nosed out the Kentuckians as Ken McCall tossed in a shot from mid-court to give his team its second win, 58-57.

Charley Hadden, Lexington Lafayette guard, who scored 23 points to take high scoring honors was named the "Star of Stars" for the contest.

In the third and final game played at Middletown, Ohio, on Saturday night, June 23, the Kentuckians bounced back to win 78-71. Jim Flynn, Carrollton 6-8 center, sparked the last quarter drive which carried the Kentucky team to victory.

Bill Uhl, Ohio 6-10 center, and George Cooke, sharpshooting Kentucky guard, each scored 16 points to tie for high point honors.

Two guards, one from each team, were named the most valuable players. Darrell Hedric garnered the Ohio honors. Forrest Able, Fairdale, was the Kentucky winner.

Daughter Of Western Founder Speaks At Breakfast

Mrs. Elizabeth Cherry Shafer, daughter of the late Dr. H. H. Cherry founder and president of Western, addressed the Kentucky Federation of Business and Professional Women in Louisville on June 10.

Mrs. Shafer, director of the women's division of Trans World Airlines, told the delegates at a breakfast in the Seelbach Hotel that people all over the world have "many things in common" and that women have a big part in helping to maintain world peace.

Mrs. Shafer, a native Kentuckian now lives in New York. As a travel adviser for T. W. A., she spends much of her time making information on travel available to women's groups and in surveying travel facilities abroad.

She says she is trying to develop a type of travel entirely different from the old sightseeing tour. She believes that the women of this and of other countries will be able to understand each other better if they can meet and talk together, exchanging personal experiences and observations.

Born in Bowling Green, Mrs. Shafer received a bachelor's degree in music at Western.

She received the master's degree in physical education at Louisiana State University. She did advanced study at Columbia University and Julliard School of Music. Before joining T. W. A. in 1950, Mrs. Shafer was a labor-relations counselor at the Glenn L. Martin Company, Baltimore. From 1946 through 1949 she had also operated her own travel bureau in Berlin.

Students Take Aerial Tours

The State Department of Aeronautics conducted aerial tours of Warren county in connection with the air-age education conference held on the Western campus, June 20-21.

Approximately 130 Western students from the agriculture and geography departments took the 55-mile flights. The six planes, carrying three persons each, took off from the local airport at 30 to 45 minute intervals.

The planes flew at 1,000 feet. The students observed unusual land formations and conservation practices.

The flights were also of value in determining if the technique and use of mapping might be helped by aerial reconnaissance.

Aubrey L. Tinsley, class of '50, writes that he is now in Korea. He has asked that we send the College Heights Herald to him there. You bet your life we'll send it to you, Aubrey. Glad that you appreciate our paper enough to ask for it.

THE BEAULOGG

In Charleston, South Carolina, there is always a friendly gathering of Citadel students at The Canteen. And, as in campus haunts everywhere, ice-cold Coca-Cola helps make these get-togethers something to remember. As a refreshing pause from the study grind, or when the gang gathers around—Coke belongs.
